

legal support isn't always there when you need it the most...

...trust us we're
there for you

Intellectual Property Law

Our solution

The development of innovative products and services can, if successful, propel small companies into becoming significant enterprises. The investment that your organisation makes in innovation can, and should, be protected from unscrupulous competitors by intellectual property (IP) rights, such as patents, trademarks, copyright and design rights.

Levi solicitors provide a "cradle to grave" service in relation to your IP rights, advising you all the way through the innovation life cycle, including:

- Auditing your business to identify what IP rights you have, and what IP rights you could acquire
- Assisting you to develop a strategy using those IP rights to protect your key products and services
- Enforcing your IP rights, and
- Advising on exploitation of your rights.

Our services include

Our IP team has wide experience of IP litigation, representing both IP rights holders, and those accused of infringing the IP rights of others. In this highly specialised area of law, you need a team such as ours with the experience to give you full and frank advice and to guide you through the litigation process.

The creation of revenue streams by the exploitation of IP rights can add real value to a business. Levi solicitors can advise on all aspects of IP right exploitation, including licensing, assignment and franchising.

We also advise on related rights such as Data Protection, comparative advertising, IT agreements and confidentiality issues.

Client benefits

We are one of very few firms who can provide fast, accurate and cost effective advice on all aspects of IP law. Our partner-led service helps both hi-tech businesses and those in more traditional sectors such as manufacturing. As the "knowledge economy" becomes central to the competitiveness of UK Plc, let Levi's give you the guidance and advice that you need.

What's the next step?

If you feel your company may benefit from advice on intellectual property (IP) rights, not only in terms of identifying and (where applicable) registering rights that may exist within your organisation, but also in creating an internal system of management of those IP rights, and getting advice on how to exploit and protect those rights so as to extract maximum commercial benefit from them, contact:

James Sarjantson on:

0113 297 3181

or email

jsarjantson@levisolicitors.co.uk

for more information.